

Staff Development Policy and Employment Principles

This policy applies to all staff employed by All Saints Community Development Company, All Saints Community Projects, All Saints Community Catering, The Robin Centre, All Saints Parish Church (All Saints).

All Saints is striving to be a good employer and believes that the care and development of its staff is a fundamental principle of good management and our Christian ethos.

All employees should be treated fairly and equally in employment, training and opportunities for promotion as in the Equal Opportunities policy

Staff should be treated in a positive, supportive way, good staff are our biggest asset

If there are issues with employees who cannot fulfil their role this should be addressed, initially through supervision and training, and not ignored.

All Saints will not allow the bullying of staff managers/leaders or Board members.

All funding applications should take into account managerial/supervision and training costs.

All Staff should have a named line-manager who will also be their supervisor.

Induction

All staff will receive an induction appropriate to their role

At induction staff should receive the Employee's Handbook and all relevant policies and guidelines.

If the person has a disability then any reasonable changes to support them should be discussed and agreed

Probationary period

All staff will have a probationary period of 3 months. During that time they will receive supervision to support them in their new role. Any issues and problems will be clearly pointed out and recorded. If the probationary period is not completed satisfactorily the employee will be clearly informed why. The probationary period can be extended to 6 months in special circumstances. If the probationary period is not satisfactory then the employee will be given notice

Supervision

All Staff will have a named supervisor. This should be someone who understands the importance of and practice of supervision and they should have access to training/support to carry out this role. Supervision will be given on a regular basis and at times appropriate to the role. A full time worker should receive at least 1 hour supervision per month. Other staff pro rata to their hours worked. Supervision meetings should be recorded and the notes kept in the employee's file. A sample form is at the end of this policy

Supervision should cover:

- Employee's successes
- Employee's needs to improve
- Meeting of any targets or budget requirements
- Employee's support needs
- Any training needs for the individual/organisation
- Any concerns on both sides

Any issues around disciplinary matters should be recorded accurately.

Team Meetings

Regular team meetings should take place within All Saints organisations.

Support

Staff should receive support through supervision. If extra personal support is seen as appropriate non line managerial support can be offered but the cost of this should be according to budgetary constraints

Managers/supervisors should offer appropriate support as in the Employees handbook. This could include bereavement, relationship breakdown, debilitating illness, work stress. It is the responsibility of the employee to inform their manager of these

Clinical supervision

Staff taking on counselling or similar roles should receive clinical supervision as prescribed through professional guidance. This should be provided by an appropriate person, who may be the manager/supervisor. If so then this should be separate to the supervision sessions. Any funding applied for to support counselling services should include a budget for clinical supervision.

Training

Staff should have access to appropriate training to enhance their skills and develop their practice in order to carry out their role for the organisation. This training will only be available within budgetary constraints.

Any costs for training should be agreed by appropriate Board.

Opportunities for free training should be accessed as much as possible.

If the training is mandatory for the job then this should be done in work's time. Part time workers should receive extra payment to attend

If it is not mandatory for the job then workers may be asked to attend in their own time and they have the right to refuse.

All staff working with children and young people should receive safeguarding/child protection training as in our safeguarding policies

All Staff working with vulnerable adults should receive safeguarding training as in our safeguarding policies

All staff preparing food should have food handling training and allergy training

Other mandatory training may be needed in different All Saints organisations. This should be organised by the designated manager, this would include first aid training.

Services should not close for staff training except in exceptional circumstances.

All staff should have equal access to training in relation to their job needs and hours.

All training should be recorded in staff's individual file.

Staff wishing for support for qualifying courses, either financial or time, should apply to the appropriate Board through their supervisor. It is unlikely that the full costs or time requirements would be given.

We cannot support staff who wish to attend training that is not a requirement of their job role

If there are problems with a member of staff's work performance then training may be offered to help. This should be recorded.

Appraisals

All staff should receive an annual appraisal with their supervisor. This should be recorded. There is a sample form at the end of this policy

Salaries

All Saints is committed to paying the living wage and no employee of All Saints will be paid less than this hourly rate. It is suggested that those on above living wage should receive the same percentage rise to maintain differentials.

All Saints pays its salaries through Birmingham Diocese.

All salaries should be set with reference to equivalent jobs in the local area and on site (information for this is available from the Job Centre).

Any other pay rises can take into account:

- Cost of living

All pay rates and rises must go through the appropriate Boards and they should take into account the situation across all employees on site.
